CHAPTER 3

PUERTO RICO

I had promised to read the blog post posted by Rafael Robayo (one of the negative victims of the Angelic, Saint and Spirit Evocation ritual) from Puerto Rico. So here is it:

"I remember having had a classmate in high school called Maria José Barrio Arévalo, a small height, beautiful young girl with the sixth level of Autism in my class. She was indeed bullied, not only by my classmates, but mostly by the school teachers and staff themselves. Even though she was all good at reading and languages (She also spoke Russian and German aside of English and Spanish), she failed too much in mathematics. She was a candidate to study medicine at the Inter-American University, but due to the hidden things her school had, they denied her application to the university. She graduated after me. Suddenly after, she told me via WhatsApp (because we stayed in contact after I graduated from high school), that something supernatural was converting her shy life into a beautiful life. She created a website on the internet called 'Mariajosebarrios.com', in which she offered business translation and medical services. And that is, she never got certification from anywhere, but it was thanks to the spirits who helped her to obtain the knowledge and wisdom to use that. She also was one of the favorite candidates to be an evangelical missionary to the nation of Ukraine from the Enay Missions Corporation. She became a handsome woman, and some of her clients told her 'She is a very attractive woman. Aside from being intelligent and wise, she is a C.U.T.E'. But, which of the spirits were part of her manifestation? Well, they were indeed the Greek goddesses and deities manifested to her in the way of Orthodox Church Saints.

It was due to that she became obsessed with Greek culture and converted into a Greek Orthodox Church member, she attended a local Orthodox parish in Puerto Rico, and became a well-known seller of medicine inside the U.S. and Puerto Rico; the Greek goddesses and deities molded her into a beautiful woman, her skin became so drained and transferred from being white to a golden skin, her hair became so shiny that was the mean of communication with the Angels and Demons, meanwhile her teeth were her form of communication with the moon each day.

I lost instant contact with her after changing my phone and sim card. I decided, then, to apply to the ENAY MISSIONS CORPORATION's mission field vacancy. When I went, I remembered about Maria José, all the content written on this blog is from her recent contact with her. We proposed to meet each other after a long time.

After agreeing with our scheduling, we decided then to meet in Bayamon, Puerto Rico in the settings of the prestigious Puerto Rico Baptist University, where she made a lot of friendships within such a seminary. In fact, she converted PRBU into an ecumenical, interfaith seminary after manipulating the faith of the college students and professors to manifest with Eastern Orthodox Churches and even with the Roman Catholic Churches.

---What the heck? ---I replied to Maria José, questioning why and how she convinced the college faculty and students to establish ties with Catholics and Orthodox---

---That's simple! ---Replied Maria José--- I conjured up Saint Cyprian, Saint Expedite to make their own work with this fundamentalist seminary.

The issue is that she was possessed by spirits that were making to pass for Roman Catholic saints that were indeed summoned by her boyfriend, with the finality to convince and question the faith of his denomination's doctrinal matters. She was converted into Orthodox Christianity but when she met her special one, he was indeed a man who wanted to conjure up the spirits of saints on behalf of her.

She tells me that when Puerto Rico Baptist University's settings were being haunted supernaturally by the supposed spirits of saints, the Colombian student body (which known very well to Maria José's boyfriend) accused her boyfriend of insisting on calling a lot to the seminary receptionist as well as by calling and sending emails to churches and organizations inside the United States and now with the haunting of their seminary settings. Likewise, they decided to contact the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of San Juan (the Puerto Rican ecclesial jurisdiction of the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops) exorcist to make an exorcism to the seminary settings. After the priest failed to cast the spirits out, the seminary students established contact, then, with the Clarke, a couple of Gnostic priests from the Ordo Templi Orientis, and members of the Hermetic Order of the Golden Dawn to make a ritual magic exorcism to cast out the spirits.

By conjuring up the spirits of Saint Cyprian, and Saint Expedite, the spell caster hired by her boyfriend told him that there would be negative expectations after a visionary encounter with the spirits. And it was thus, even though he prospered with the positive conjuration of spirits, his denomination, in fact, was suffering with tormentations and hallucinations from his paternal grandmother's child appearance. They blamed her boyfriend until the point of expulsion from the church he was attending. However, even though they were making a resolution to expel him from the church, with the conversion of the O.T.O-affiliated couple, they decided to make him still part of the denomination family. He converted to Maria José's Orthodox faith after the occurred successes, and he passed from being a Protestant bigot to a follower of his future wife's religion (the Byzantine Orthodox Church/Byzantine Catholic Church), though he stayed in contact with his former denomination's people.

Maria José, in fact, presented her testimony in several media outlets of the Orthodox Church. She was indeed invited by the Russian president to speak at her testimony at the Ecumenical Patriarchate's annual conference, and she was also interviewed by the media...

What I understood from her story is that both her boyfriend and she made reality their long-time utopia''.

I'd made myself about Rafael Robayo's testimony after his friend's boyfriend contacted me with the purpose of contacting the saints of the Catholic Church. I had warned him about the secondary effects he would be facing. The man was from Costa Rica and established a love interest with Maria José after she subscribed to his YouTube channel and commented on his sermon videos. The preaching was indeed part of his college practices (he was majoring in theology at the Latin American Biblical University). And even though the university was tied to the Liberation Theology, the university was mostly open-minded, meaning that he could do his practices at his local church (a fundamentalist church). It was then that he edited his practicing videos, adding English subtitles to his videos to specifically reach out to the American Christian communities. It was then that Maria José met him, and their love started...

When he contacted me, he told me that he was frustrated due to the lacking literature he had at his home, as well as division from his family on the maternal and paternal side. And looking for some occultists in expertise, he reached out to me through buying my evocation ritual services (In this case, he purchased the service on "Saint Cyprian Evocation"). In fact, after a satisfactory service made to me by the Ganush-Lewis couple, I prospered with my online evocation store, offering evocation rituals from all types of magic. From the conjuration of the Lord of the Miracles to the conjuration of Saint Peter. He decided, then, to call upon Saint Cyprian, and then I offered to him the work at $100 USD (The majority of the evocation works were beginning at $700 USD), he paid all the bills, and then he requested me to call upon the spirit of Saint Cyprian. It was something radical among him to specifically question his denomination's doctrinal statements. After the ritual, he was satisfied with the service and promised he would contact me again to specifically summon the saints of the Eastern Orthodox Churches. It was then that haunting, and negative possessions among his denomination's churches was something ugly and terrible. It was because I summoned Belphegor too (As I warned him that negative possessions would be made to his denomination), but he didn't pay attention to that case, so I did conjure the demons of Belphegor likewise. This demon appears in the form of a little girl during the hauntings, and the little girl was Maria José's boyfriend's paternal grandmother's child appearance. I also summoned King Paimon to question the faith of Puerto Rico Baptist University students. The ritual was thus: I summoned Saint Cyprian to bring on prosperity to Maria José's family and conjured up King Paimon and Belphegor to attack and torment mystically her boyfriend's denomination churches.

But was Rafael Robayo involved with this long story? YES! He was one of the victims who presented negatively the haunting of his denomination's churches. He was tied with the Pentecostal line of Protestantism. That is, he was a Pentecostal churchman that was indeed devout to that faith. He was a member of the United Missionary Movement Int'l, a fundamentalist Pentecostal denomination affiliated to biblical literalism, combining the allegorical school of interpretation with the grammatical-historical school of interpretation. He had always opted for full-time service in the leading of the Lord, but as he wasn't called to ministry (as the Lord Himself manifested to me saying that he was NOT the called one (Acts 16:7-8)). So, in order to take him into another place instead of full-time pastoral ministry, missionary, or anything else, I conjured the patron saint of theologians (That is, St. Thomas Aquinas) and paired him with Psalm 139:23-24.

And it came to pass along, when Rafael Robayo was sleeping, behold, a nightmare revelation from the supposed Saint Thomas Aquinas appeared to him. The apparition, in fact, was due to the lack of biblical knowledge that never came to the mind of Robayo. By the way, he said unto him:

“Robayo” (Said the Spirit of Saint Thomas Aquinas) “Behold you are not prepared to be a missionary, you have several obstacles in your life that are avoiding to you to be busy with my beloved Lord, so I am willing to give you all the wisdom to study industrial engineering at the University of Puerto Rico in San Juan, and that’s where you need to stay son. You are not prepared to study theology yet, it is better that you earn a major in Industrial Engineering at that university, you must respect the Lord your God”

“Who are you?” (Replied Rafael Robayo with a skeptical mind) “I don’t really know what you are talking about”

“I want you to leave the professional degree in theology and study, behold, Industrial Engineering, you have a big future beside you. But if you don’t fulfill my rules (that indeed were mandated by the Highest God), the effects will be devastating. So, take your time, meditate on it! Because when you choose the wrong path, Belphegor will manifest in you in the form of your best friend’s child appearance that will indeed bring you to hell. Repeat, you have so much potential to specifically leave the theology degree and earn an engineering degree instead” (Said Saint Thomas of Aquinas, the patron saint of theologians, warning him that if he doesn't obey him, Belphegor demon will indeed appear to him and his congregation, that if he enters to the University of Puerto Rico to major in industrial engineering, Saint Patrick will illuminate him in better understanding the readings, math, and theories of the theological sense of engineering)

But on his will, Robayo decided to follow studying theology at the Inter-American University.

I summoned King Paymon to specifically question the faith of Rafael Robayo. Sound interferences were indeed forced during his church services. And trying to preach out the Gospel of Christ, he taught it through the presence of King Paymon, that made him do his call perfectly. And having disobeyed the consequences from Saint Thomas of Aquinas, he fell into depression. That was in fact something radical that made him change now, because some demons were attacking his congregation during the church services.

Not only was he the victim of questionable faith, but also an attractive young man from Uruguay, who was indeed a pastor's child, was going also to the New Life Evangelical Seminary in Mexico, where he supposedly was called by the "Lord" (¿?)

URUGUAY

In Montevideo (Uruguay), there was a full-haired, attractive young man that was indeed a child beside his family. Pride was indeed the main sin above his family; he had it all as a child: Toys, video games, but most of all, he was homeschooled by his mother, a pastor's wife. He also enjoyed homeschooling, in a country as civilized as Uruguay between the Latin American metropolis, homeschooling was very typical among the Latin American nation.

His name was Carlos Flores, an athletic young man who had a forwarding life. From going to study Medicine to a prominent university in Uruguay to have a stable, good job. He was on the soccer team of homeschool children and was the leader of such a homeschool team.

He was physically attractive due to being an athlete. He indeed had a pretty smile, abdominals don't be said, and he was also a gym kid during his childhood years; He was indeed nicknamed "The Homeschool Sugar daddy", because of being so athletic and chunky since childhood. And, that is, he was a muscular young man who couldn't be as busy as anything else. His parents, who were indeed professionals in their specific areas, were motivated when their son was born chunky; they even decided to work him out in the area of sports and aerobics. Indeed, Carlos had become an athletic celebrity among the social media during the 2000's internet discovering decade. The Flores Verbel family became rich with their bodybuilder boy that they decided to move out to Spain, where Carlos Flores would be indeed more famous in Europe among social media followers. However, what it was hidden about Carlos is that he was homeschooled by his parents, and attended church in an ordinary way. The way is, however, that he wasn't attending a Catholic Church, but attended an independent evangelical church in his home country. Otherwise, there were many theories about his religious affiliation, and indeed, there were attacks by that epoch's Left-wing organizations.

I'd made myself about him, but I did just lose information about him when the internet became a phenomenon the following decade. Fortunately, I received a letter from him through my mailbox in Argentina telling me the following:

“Dear Mr. Muschietti,

I just heard so much that you are a Protestant witch. Too many people have told me to not have any contact with you. But I dare myself in writing to you this gentle letter.

After graduating from homeschool last year, I decided then to major in Translation and Interpretation here in Spain (I am originally from Montevideo, Uruguay). So, in the middle of my Translation program, I decided to make my practices in a Spanish elementary school. I am specializing in Hebrew and Greek Languages. So, as a devout Christian, I wrote some prayers in Hebrew to see if the Lord can listen directly to my heart in the sense of feeling the presence of God. So, I was wondering if you want to work with me in the sense of conjuring up Angels, so they may hear my voice in Hebrew and talk to the Lord directly. They told me that there exists an occult language called the Enochian language, but some say that language is false, but others say this language is full of mystery and revelation, so they warned me NOT to recite that language, or I would be the hell itself.

While I am well-versed in Hebrew, I would love to also have a practice of the Enochian language. Working so hard while studying, I have a budget of 200 €, which is indeed more expensive in your country. So, if you want, I can interfere in sending you via PayPal those 200 € so we may start to work”

Well, I was very intrigued about him, that he was willing and risking himself to invoke angels and demons on behalf of him. So, I decided to write him back through an email address. He then answered me and behold, he hired me to evoke Angels and Demons specifically.

—I am willing to evoke spirits by myself—Carlos said—on behalf of my mother, my father, my sister, and my future wife. As a multilingual man, I want to evoke the Angels and Demons to partner themselves and behold their thing with me.

—Are you willing to make all of this stuff—I warned that he could face bad sensations if he was willing to do a terrific and dangerous thing— I have been communicating with the Angels, Demons, as well as with the Saints of the Roman Catholic Church for more than two decades, and several people have been dragged to hell forced by the evocation of these spirits. If you ask the Angels to partner with Demons you will face tribulation, but if you ask the Angels to partner with the Saints, they could possibly bring you prosperity, which side are you on Carlos?—

—I expose to conjure up the Angels and Demons— replied Carlos Flórez, meaning that he would regret this in the future

—Well said, Carlos Flórez, you have decided the right way—I replied to him respecting his decision after the warnings—

It was indeed a very satisfactory service I did to him in the sense of safeguarding his expectative.

After conjuring up those spirits, Carlos Florez decided to come back to Spain, but the flights were not OK. And then, in the flight scale no.2, that connected Barranquilla to Madrid directly, he saw some problems among some passengers that were indeed taken out of the plane they were in.

—Hey, what’s going on—Said Carlos to the passengers that were outside—

—Who are you? —Replied Johana Colón—

—Hey Sir— Replied a police officer with a typical Colombian Police uniform— You shouldn't be here, it's a restrained zone, have you seen the signs? —

—Oh my, sorry for having not seen that before! — Replied shamedly Carlos, whom flight was arising beside him—

Carlos then, safeguarded himself his bag back to Spain, but he then witnessed something supernatural in the airport.

Back to Spain, he then realized there was something strange among his life, as he was doing his university practices between the other side, he went to a Spanish Bilingual School in which totalities among teachers was exclusive of the teachers, as it was a Protestant Christian school with American funds (that means, an American Christian school funded by USD, and not by EUR). Carlos realizes about the complete totalities amongst the teachers when he sees a COD student and distorts him before his classmates. The same happens with another student, who suffers from the sixth level of Autism, and she's humiliated by the school teachers, and classmates.

—Hey, what's going around here?—Asked Carlos Florez questioning about the class of bullying amongst the teachers at that Protestant Christian school

—What's your position in this school sir? — Asked one guard

— I am majoring in translation and interpretation, specializing in biblical Hebrew. I decided to take on my practices in this school on behalf of my university. I was homeschooled—

—I will transfer you to the school principal office—Replied the guard

Carlos Florez is well received by the school, but when he realizes that the school is a hell for minority groups, and disabled communities, he cringes. He then feels the presence of something supernatural, something evil above his body, and realizes that two students would kill the school staff in an instant. He didn't do anything to prevent it, but was silent. Resulting that the two bullied students become a couple by killing the school teachers via poisoning them!

What happens here is that the two students watched a TV program that incited them to do that atrocity, and then, they killed the school staff that was off school hours in the principal's office.

Once known the case, Carlos Flórez realizes that an evil spirit caused the teenage couple to murder.

The Spanish National Police promptly arrive at the crime scene in the Christian school, and begin to research who were the criminal minds inside the scene.

Carlos then instigates to one police officer to tell them that a demonic spirit was haunting the school. However, and due to an skeptical thinking of the Christian school officials, they fault Carlos for inciting a murder.

I had warned Carlos that a demonic force would incite that, but on his own pride, he left my advice behind.

BRAZIL

As told by me, the negative influence of the ritual I was doing was not just affecting me and my loved ones, they were affecting young people all across Latin America, including Brazil. Carlota Sucre, a young girl from the Sao Paulo (Brazil), who she also attended the Universal Church of the Kingdom of God as a faithful tither, as well as for being part of a Christian university which she did her college practices in local public schools by teaching the Bible to young children. She was winning a job internship as a Released-Time Education teacher in the U.S. However, what she wanted the most was the following: She had a strong ambition of winning $1M US dollars to specifically become a pastor inside the UCKG and installing a women's seminary for the denomination's women congregants. So, after denigrating her a lot from her peers and church leaders, she decided to contact me while posting herself a project on Fiverr (Fiverr was indeed my worksite). The project was titled “Women’s Ministry project for the UCKG”. According to her project, she wanted to make a non-denominational women’s ministry for her to become a pastor within the UCKG. So, I decided to contact St. Joan of Arce to make her endeavors into this woefully woman looking to renew her fundamentalist Protestant church located in Brazil.

She wasn’t excited to see stranger things happening around her life. She witnessed the vanishing of a Baptist Church building in Sao Paulo (Brazil), but not only that, she also witnessed that Brazil was becoming “The nation with the cutest kids in the world”, as the majority of kids within Brazil were being possessed by the Archangel Haniel, and Saint Nicholas (the patron saint of children). She asked me to summon this saint on behalf of her co-workers' children with diseases, as the innocence among their children could bring prosperity into their family as well as strengtheness within their marriage.

And thus, Instagram and TikTok had top child users from across Brazil. Saint Nicholas and Archangel Haniel partnered themselves to possess all the souls of Brazilian children thanks to Carlota’s petition to make this a reality (though she had wanted other stuff contrary to this).

THE PROTESTANT SUMMONER SHOP

As these stories were told by me, I became a professional occultist. I, Brian Alveiro Muschietti Rendon, had been for some time an Agnostic, but later after my beloved paternal cousin was assassinated in 1999, I decided, then, to attend his Baptist Church in Argentina. Both my cousin and I were born in Argentina, but by at least three years old, he moved to Santiago (Chile). It was in Chile where he met the Baptist Church by enrolling in a Christian school in such a city. He later became a famous theologian known for his “Latin American Confessing Theology” making it a total mess for his denomination, being totally expelled from his Local Church in La Plata (Argentina).

One of the promises I made to him before his praised death was to evoke the Saints of the Catholic Church, Angels, Demons and the souls of deceased people with not need to use dangerous methods (such as Ouija), but instead through two methods:

Candle Rituals: My cousin suggested to me to do candle rituals, so he gifted me a book called “The Magical Power of the Saints: Evocation and Candle Rituals” by Rev. Ray T. Marlborough to specifically read messages in a candle flame to see if my prayers were being answered. That was an option but the other was Occult practitioners made the work: He told me that he contacted a gypsy occultist on Fiverr to make him a work of evocation rituals. He later decided not to do it because he “wanted to respect my life and the other ones”.

So, I did choose the “Occult practitioners made the work”, so occult experts would have the expertise to evoke spirits of Saints, Angels, Demons, and the souls of deceased people. And I did it, a couple of occultists contacted me and requested to hire them at $100, and I did evoke, then, all the aforementioned souls and spirits!

But, did I choose to use the candle rituals?Absolutely! I decided to do candle rituals using the aforementioned book by Llewellyn Publications. But, what did I do? I wrote prayers in a notebook to a specific saint who appeared in the Llewellyn book and some recently beatified-by-the-Church-saints. Between those new saints, I conjured Carlo Acutis, to edit, codify and modify my website titled “The Protestant Summoner”. I evoked Saint John Henry Newman, to appear into my dreams and dictate to me what I have to write in my notebook and blog both. That was an approached method of spiritual growth with the Lord and his celestial Hierarchy as He would be doing his work with His Holy Servants.

Obviously, there were ups and downs from this method of spiritual relation with God.
